Catalogued by ED. FROSSARD.

CONDITIONS OF SALE.

1. The highest Bidder to be the Buyer; and, if any dispute arise, between two or more Bidders, the Lot so in dispute shall be immediately put up again and re-sold.

2. The Purchasers to give their names and addresses, and to pay down twenty-five per cent. on the dollar in part payment, or the whole of the Purchase-money if required; in default of which the Lot or Lots so purchased to be immediately put up again and re-sold. Unless otherwise stated, all objects in this catalogue will be sold per piece, and bids must be made accordingly.

3. The Lots to be taken away at the Buyer's Expense and Risk within twenty-four hours from the conclusion of the Sale, and the remainder of the Purchase-money to be absolutely paid, or otherwise settled for to the satisfaction of the Vendors, on or before delivery; in default of which Messrs. GEO. A. LEAVITT & Co. will not hold themselves responsible, if the Lots be lost, stolen, damaged, or destroyed, but they will be left at the sole risk of the Purchaser.

4. The sale of any Book, Painting, Engraving, Print, Furniture, Works of Art, or any other article, is not to be set aside on account of any error in the description. All articles are exposed for Public Exhibition one or more days, and are sold just as they are without recourse. All books are presumed to be perfect unless otherwise expressed, and are collated as far as practicable when catalogued; but the sale of any book or books cannot be invalidated on account of any stained, foxed, torn, mended, facsimile, written on, stamped, or short leaves of text, plates, maps or diagrams, or want of title, frontispiece, table of contents, index, or list of plates, or on account of the publication of any subsequent volume, supplement, appendix or plates. All manuscripts and autographs, all magazines and reviews, all books in lots, and all pamphlets in lots or volumes, all single volumes or sets, will be sold with all their faults, imperfections and errors of description. The sale of any illustrated book, lot of prints or drawings is not to be set aside on account of any error in the enumeration of the number of volumes or pieces, or other errors of description.

5. To prevent inaccuracy in delivery and inconvenience in the settlement of the Purchases, no Lot can, on any account, be removed during the sale.

6. Upon failure of complying with the above conditions, the money deposited in part payment shall be forfeited; all Lots uncleared within the time aforesaid shall be re-sold by Public or Private Sale, and the deficiency (if any) attending such re-sale shall be made good by the Defaulter at this Sale, together with all charges attending the same. This Condition is without prejudice to the right of the Auctioneers to enforce the contract made at this sale, without such re-sale if they think fit.

Proem.

The extensive and remarkable Collection described in the following pages has been divided into two parts.

The first comprises Mexican, Peruvian, Egyptian, Greek, Roman, Gallo-Roman and Merovingian Antiquities ; Ethnographical examples ; Pre-historic Arms and Implements ; interesting specimens of Geology, Mineralogy, Anthropology and Natural History ; Medieval Horse-equipments ; rare Gems ; Curios, Paintings ; and Coins and Medals. This portion aggregates over 15,000 objects of importance, and forms the most extensive Archæological Collection ever offered at public sale in America.

Besides the many examples discovered by Monsieur Eugène Boban, or purchased directly from other explorers, he drew largely from the following sources : —The Mexican Section of Antiquities, at the Paris Exposition of 1868 ; the Zapotecas series of Funereal Vases, obtained from the heirs of Monsieur Martin, formerly Consul in Mexico ; the Collection, gathered on the Gulf Coast, of the late Dr. Fuzier, Chief of the Polytechnic School, Paris ; the Collection of Señor Don Jose M. Melgar, Mexican Archæologist ; the remainder of the collection made by Count de Waldeck, the well-known explorer of Yucatan ; purchases from the great Posno Collection, made at Cairo, Egypt ; etc., etc.

* * *

The second part of this catalogue is devoted to Monsieur Boban's Library and consists of some two thousand five hundred volumes. Among these are Mexican manuscripts of great importance, nearly all of which belonged to those distinguished Hispano-American savants, Brasseur de Bourbourg and Alph. L. Pinart, as did quite a large number of the books. These are particularly rich in Mexican, Central American and South American aboriginal vocabularies.

Many of the nuggets of the Andrade and Brinley libraries of a Spanish-American character can be found in Monsieur Boban's collection, particularly early voyages and histories. There are quite a number of works relating to Canada, the United States and the West Indies.

In the miscellaneous portion of the library there are some of the best authorities on Archæology, Ethnology, Anthropology, Natural History, Geology, Mineralogy, Botany, Ceramics and other departments of Science and Art.

* * *

New York has been selected by Monsieur Boban as the place of sale because his Collection is principally American, and because he knows that in the United States are to be found splendid museums, earnest students, cultured archæologists and appreciative collectors. He sincerely hopes that the majority of the great archæological rarities of Mexico, and many other objects, will find permanent homes in the principal Museums and Collections of this country.

* * *

The auctioneers rely on the friendly co-operation of all those interested in Archaeological and Bibliophilistic pursuits into whose hands this catalogue may fall. The undersigned cataloguers, as well as Monsieur Boban, will be ready to give any additional information required to those who desire to be represented at the sale, which is absolute and without any reserve whatsoever.

10 CENTIMETERS, METRIC SCALE.

CATALOGUE.

MEXICAN ARCHÆOLOGY.

The Collection of Mexican Antiquities described in the following pages, from No. 1 to 226 inclusive, comprises a total of 1,360 different specimens in bronze, obsidian, rock-crystal, jadcite, agate, scatite, jasper, serpentine, lava, marble, basalt, bone, shell, wood, and terra-cotta when no other term is used. With two exceptions noted, Nos. 224 and 225, all are perfectly genuine and authentic, and fully illustrate the theogony and civilisation of Ancient Mexican races at periods anterior to the conquest of Mexico by Hernando Cortez. The materials of this part of the collection were originally classified by M. A. Damour, a distinguished mineralogist, member of the French Institute.

THE MEASUREMENTS ARE IN METERS AND CENTIMETERS.

- 1 Spear and Javelin heads, tlacochtli, arrow heads, mitl, perfect teeth of the macuahuitl, the arm of Montezuma's army, at the time of the Conquest, etc. From the Valley of Mexico in general; two of the pieces are strikingly similar to Esquimaux scrapers. Obsidian (15); quartz (5). 3 to 14 centimeters. 20 pcs.
- 2 Nucleus or core from which obsidian blades were chipped, in size from $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $17\frac{1}{2}$ cent. (8); knife plates or ytztlí neximaloni neximal itztli (9); bleeding blade (1). Obsidian; from the Valley of Mexico in general. 19 pcs.

A superb and valuable lot; most of these select implements were held sacred by the Mexicans, who brought them annually to the priests to be anointed and consecrated.

- 3 Broad pointed double edged sacrificial knives or tecpatl, used by Mexican priests to disembowel human victims, perfect and excessively rare specimens of the finest work, $15\frac{1}{2}$ to 27 (5, one broken); lance heads, obsidian, 8 to 10 cent. (2). A valuable lot from Oajaca, the country of the Zapotecas.
7 pcs.
- 4 Objects in copper or bronze, tepuztli meaning red metal. Warriors' bells, tepuz cuyulli, filagree work (9), very fine specimens in size from 4 to 7 cent., the latter one of the largest known, all from Oajaca; needles or tepuz uitzmal-lotl, of singular design (10), $3\frac{1}{2}$ to 12 cent., Valley of Mexico; axes, or tlaximaltepuztontli, from the Valley of Mexico, 8 to 12 cent. (4); other axe, T shape, classified by several authorities as Mexican money, $10\frac{1}{2} \times 15\frac{1}{2}$, Oajaca; small T shaped objects, 3 to 4 cent., probably ancient Mexican money (3); small chisels (3), and fragments of rings (2); Valley of Mexico. Lot of great interest and archæological value.
33 pcs.
- 5 Ancient Mexican jewelry or objects of personal adornment.
1.—Necklace pendant of jadeite, oblong square, 4 x 10 cent., representing crouching high priest in relief, in the act of blowing perfumed air from his mouth, Yucatan; 2.—human skull, carved in rock-crystal, $3\frac{1}{2}$ cent., Valley of Mexico; 3.—obsidian ear-ornament called nacohti of wafer like thinness, 2 cent., collection of Baron Waldeck; 4.—others, similar to last (2); 5.—ornaments for lower lip, tentetl, worn by officers of the imperial household who captured living prisoners on the battle field, rock-crystal (1), obsidian (7), $1\frac{1}{2}$ to 4 cent., Valley of Mexico; 6.—large disks called chalchihuitl or precious stone, a species of jadeite valued at 4 times its weight in gold (4), 3 to 5 cent., Zapotecas; 7.—polished idol's eyes, ixtelolotli, agate and obsidian (4), 2 cent., Valley of Mexico; 8.—collar pendants, tlupilolli, all of different forms, inclusive of human head, onyx, agate, serpentine, and rock-crystal (6), 2 to 4 cent., Zapotecas and Aztec; 9.—small idols, serpentine, schist (6), 3 to 4 cent., several damaged, Zapotecas; 10.—buttons, imitation turquoise, terra-cotta, jadeite, obsidian, pierced and unpierced (5), Valley of Mexico; 11.—necklace bead, cozcatl, 4 cent. in diameter, perforated, variety of jadeite, Aztec; 12.—obsidian implement, 7 cent., Aztec; 13.—obsidian disk, pierced, $2\frac{1}{2}$ cent., Aztec; 14.—polished cornelian, of elongated rounded form (2), 4 cent., Aztec; 15.—rock-crystal hand, 4 cent., Aztec; 16.—duck head, obsidian, 3 cent., Aztec; 17.—flat pierced disks, obsidian and agate, Aztec; 18.—serpentine collar piece, pierced, 5 cent., Aztec. In itself a highly interesting and valuable collection.

- 95 Idol. Face damaged. Height 17 cent. Cotastla.

- 96 Mask or xayacatl of human face, life size, Aztec type. This object was carried by high officers and warriors, in ceremonies of state, and the emperor's head at his death was covered by it. A magnificent perfect specimen; alabaster, several perforations behind for suspension. Valley of Mexico.
- 97 Alabaster mask. Same origin. Smaller; damaged.
- 98 Marble mask. Same origin. Perfect. 10 x 9 cent.
- 99 White marble mask. Same origin. $5\frac{1}{2}$ x 5 cent.
- 100 Compact stone idol, of a somewhat negro type. Superb and perfect specimen from the Gulf Coast, near Vera Cruz. 12 x 10 cent.
- 101 Funereal vase, funneled back. Idol seated, legs crossed, wearing high ornamental crown, serpent entwined around it, large earrings and belt. A beautiful and perfect specimen from excavations near the ancient palace, Mitla, of the Zapotecas. Terra-cotta; very rare. Height 17 cent.
- 102 Another. Bust to hip, the head ornamented with broad fringed head-dress, large earrings, necklace, the hands crossed over the breast. A magnificent and curious specimen of grey terra-cotta, same excavations as last. 18 x 12 cent.
- 103 Another. Mask-like face, Coptic head-dress, on his chest is suspended a broad medallion bearing in the centre the triune symbol, between two serpents within a square, below which the crux ansata; the hands rest on crossed six-toed feet. The funnel behind is broken; in every other respect perfect; a most interesting and valuable specimen assimilating in style and design to Egyptological specimens. Height 20, width 15 cent. Same locality.
- 104 Another. Human figure seated, the face covered with odd ornaments, suspended from the neck is a medallion bearing a face and belt-knot. One leg missing; mended. Height 16 cent. Same locality.
- 105 Another. Seated figure, small head, heavy medallion suspended, large arms, the hands resting on crossed knees. Opening of funnel slightly damaged. Height 17 cent. Same origin.
- 106 Eagle-faced warrior's head, the eyes are pierced, the forehead broad and expanding, the head covered with a crested cap. Very fine specimen from Zapotecas, base restored. 19 x 13 cent.

No. 107.

107 Funereal vase of a great warrior. Bat-headed figure, from whose neck hangs a small medallion below which a square apron is attached. The head is surmounted by a serpent's head, from which radiate a trophy of arms and banners. The funnel behind is very large and slightly damaged, otherwise this most beautiful specimen of great archaeological value is in nearly perfect condition. Fine black burnished terra-cotta; 15 x 14 cent. Excavated from tomb near the ancient palace Mitla, of the Zapotecas.

It is known that the palaces of Mitla, situate about 10 leagues from the city of Oajaca, were the necropolis of the great chiefs of the ancient nation of Zapotecas.

- 108 Large funereal vase, funnel-backed. Seated figure, wearing a feathered tiara, the nose is completely concealed under a large ornament, very large pendants (one restored) hang from the ears, hieroglyphic monster medallion rests on apron before, the hands grasp three-toed crossed feet. Splendidly preserved (arm mended) and rare specimen from the same locality. 31 x 25 cent.
- 109 Another. Very similar to last. Parts of crown, hand and left leg restored. Same locality. 34 x 25 cent.
- 110 Another. Seated idol wearing a high hooded tiara. The face has a hideous expression, the eyes, nose, ears are richly ornamented, a collar of beads encircles the neck, the arms clasp a small vase, below which falls a broad apron, the elbows resting on crossed legs. A beautiful and valuable example of this rare type, grey terra-cotta, mended only in one section of base. 38 x 30 cent. Same locality.
- 111 Another. Very similar to last. Face and trunk perfect, the tiara, legs and base mended or restored. 39 x 30.
- 112 Another. Largest funereal vase. Seated naked idol wearing hooded tiara, cape, belt, and apron. The nose wears an enormous projecting ornament, the teeth are filed into a saw pattern, a bead collar encircles the neck, the hands grasp a small (border chipped) vase. The posture is more natural, and the work of finer execution than preceding, lower extremities especially well modeled. Superb and valuable specimen, a few beads broken, part of tiara to right ear restored. Same origin. 40 x 32 cent.
- 113 Funereal vase of a totally different form. The capacity of the vase is very large, and was unquestionably designed to contain solid and perhaps liquid food, and other offerings to the dead. One side of the vase represents a seated idol without face ornaments, wearing disks at ears, and a necklace of elongated beads. A cape, uepilli, embroidered on border, covers entire front to the hands, the head is ornamented with striated coils, damaged at ends. A curious and rare example, brown terra-cotta, mended. Same locality. 27 x 26 cent.
- 114 Another. Seated idol wearing a wide flattened hood, bearing hieroglyphs and adorned with feathers, the eyes are horned, nose ornament prominent, the ears wear pendants, a collar of 5 beads on the neck, festooned cape falls to elbows, bracelets encircle wrists, a fringed apron covers the front. Perfect, complete and valuable specimen, of greyish-black terra-cotta, small funnel. 28 x 23 cent. Same locality.
- 115 Another. Short seated idol, wearing nose and chin ornaments, ear-pendants and small cape, the lower part of which rests on crossed legs. A wide projecting diadem extends over the head and is fastened to a high headdress formed of a fan-like bunch of feathers, flanked by ears of maize and maize leaves. Very odd and interesting specimen, mended and restored. Greyish-black terra-cotta, small funnel to vase. 34 x 30. Same locality.

No. 116.

116 Statue of the God of War of the Zapotecas. Total height 72, greatest width 34 centimeters, material grey terra-cotta. Full figure resting on partly restored pedestal. The face is broad with prominent features and eagle-beaked nose, between the eye-brows are four pearls, double pearl pendant from upper lip, the ears are large, the lobes widely pierced are ornamented with disks, each with cruciform perforation in centre. The entire left side of head from centre is closely shaved, the right side is covered with a thick, solid growth of hair extending upwards 3 cent. Around the neck is a braided collar to which are fastened 11 upper human jaws, each with perfect set of teeth, to denote the strength and vigor of the enemies slain; hanging to the ends of this is suspended a perfect and beautiful human head, inverted, another spoil of war, with neck covered by a richly embroidered rounded gorget, and hair falling in plentiful locks down to the knees of the statute. Bracelets of pearls encircle each arm of the god; around the waist is a broad decorated belt to which are suspended 38 ornaments, similar in shape to the bowls of our modern clay pipes but probably representing what the Aztecs called the atetl-tototl of slain enemies. Garters are placed around the knees, the feet are encased in short sandals. In his right hand is a vase, of tiger's paw pattern, while the left (fingers restored) probably grasped the tecpatl or sacrificial knife. In the head, at sides and on top are three apertures, behind, above the waist, is a larger one, into which were thrown the hearts of human beings sacrificed to this idol. With the two slight restorations specified, and a skilfully mended crack extending through legs and hanging hair, perfect and entire. Altogether the most important and one of the finest specimens of Ceramic art of the Zapotecas civilization, superior to any specimen of Aztec art. Unique; not found in any Museum of America or Europe.

The series, from 101 to 116 inclusive, was brought to Europe in 1845, by Monsieur Martin, Consular Agent of France at Oajaca, who made long and most successful explorations in the country of the Zapotecas. The price he asked for the 16 pcs. was 100,000 frcs. Monsieur Boban did not succeed to purchase till 1879, after the death of Martin and of his entire immediate family. Since that time these objects have remained in his possession.

117 Small funereal vase. Idol; large neck-lace of beads. Slightly imperfect. Height 13. Blackish terra-cotta; Zapotecas.

118 Another. Fine, but right arm missing. Grey terra-cotta. 15 c.

119 Idol's head. Negro type, horned. Solid black lava. 18 cent. Zapuapita, State of Vera Cruz.

120 Seated idol. Marble. Zapotecas. 13½ c. Very ancient.

- 121 Small idol. Marble. Preservation better than last. Zapotecas. 6 c.
- 122 Small vase. Wood, engraved and stained. Zapotecas. 6 c.
- 123 Incense vase. Pointed pattern, handles. Base mended. Very curious and rare. 8 c. San Andres Tuxtla.
- 124 Metatl, to crush corn. Lava, reduced size, a tomb ornament. 13 x 10. Sacrificios.
- 125 Crucible, or tlax xotl. Terra-cotta. 17. Tlalisco Yan.
- 126 Tube. Pipe (?). Red terra-cotta. 9½. Vera Cruz.
- 127 Distilling tube, or ateeoni (40 cent.) and fragment of vase, with connecting perforation. San Juan Teotihuacan. 2 pcs.
- 128 Fragments of stone and pottery vases, feet, etc., several finely painted. Gulf Coast, Puebla, Mexico. 20 pcs.
- 129 Pestle shaped stone from the walls of the ancient and immense palace of Huexotla near Tescoco, which was built entirely of this material. 19 c.
- 130 Ladle or xumatli. Terra-cotta; mended. Grotto of Orizaba. 28 x 14.
- 131 Long shaft of incense burner or tlemaitl, terminating with serpent's head, the interior filled with beads. Glazed and painted terra-cotta. Damaged. 60 cent. Valley of Mexico.
- 132 Incense burner (tlemaitl-handfire) with handle and feet, open work at sides. Glazed terra-cotta, a little damaged. It was in this style of vase that was burned before idols the famous balsam, huitziloxitl. Very rare. 17 x 8. Sacrificios.
- 133 Incense burner. Round, large handles. Terra-cotta; red glaze. Top a little dented. 20 x 10½. Valley of Mexico.
- 134 Another. Same form; yellow glaze. A little smaller.
- 135 Female statuette, naked to hip, short skirt, wearing a feathered head-dress and moccasins at her feet, the very type of a North Am. squaw. Face damaged. 12 x 8. Important ethnographical specimen of yellow terra-cotta. San Andres Tuxtla.
- 136 Circular terra-cotta vase with handle and long mouth. In the medial part, at the swelling of the vase is a bestial human face in relief, four projections at sides resemble arms and legs, entire surface ornamented with painted designs, the whole bearing a strong resemblance to a turtle. Found in Mixteca by French officers under Bazaine and presented by them to Dr. Fuzier, who considered this one of the most beautiful and important pieces of his collection. Perfect. Height 17, diam. 20 c.

- 137 Terra-cotta vase, brown glaze. Low, broad body, with frog's head at one end, sides engraved by hand to represent remainder of body; monkey engraved on posterior. Neck damaged; mended. A rare specimen from Sacrificios. Height 14 c.
- 138 Round vase, short neck, engraved at sides. Sacrificios. Height 8 c.
- 139 Another. Red terra-cotta like last. Outline of face at side. Height 8.
- 140 Vase with damaged foot, band near mouth. 17. Same locality.
- 141 Cylindrical vase, slight red glaze, hand carvings at top. Height 26, diam. 13 cent. Mended. Sacrificios.
- 142 Bowl, rounded swelling sides. Red glaze, engraved with geometrical designs. $8\frac{1}{2}$ x 13 cent. Sacrificios.
- 143 Another. Similar. Greek pattern engraved by hand. 5 x 10. Mended. Sacrificios.
- 144 Another. Outward curving mouth. $5\frac{1}{2}$ x 11. Mended. Sacrificios.
- 145 Black terra-cotta bowl with handles. Damaged. 7 x 9. Sacrificios.
- 146 Large fragments of cup and bowl showing complete form. Handsome decoloration in colors. Same locality. 2 pcs.
- 147 Solid terra-cotta crusher, pestle shape. 11 cent. Same locality.
- 148 Saucers, red glaze, one damaged. Sacrificios. 2 pcs.
- 149 Stone ball. $5\frac{1}{2}$ centimeters. Sacrificios.
- 150 Cylindrical libation beaker. Red glaze ornamented with circles and birds in black; broad hieroglyphic engravings at mouth. $17\frac{1}{2}$ x 9 cent. Sacrificios.
- 151 Temple bowls for offerings to idols, hollowed work containing rattling beads, resting on three cylindrical feet. Fine form, rare, mended but complete. 10 x 24 cent. Sacrificios.
- 152 Temple bowl of similar form. The feet are cylindrical with rounded base and perpendicular perforation. Very fine glaze decoration, hieroglyphic inscription around outer circumference. A beautiful and perfect specimen. 10 x 21 cent. Sacrificios.
- 153 Fragments of idols, vases, dishes, rattles, rattle-balls. Several perfect objects in this lot of 30 pieces, insignificant fragments not counted.
- 154 Wooden idol. Face carved and still retaining part of red metallic paint, the hands crossed over the breast. Excessively hard wood, and very rare, few objects of this class having been preserved. Length 70 cent. Alvarado.
- 155 Temple bowl. At the bottom are festooned squares of a hieroglyphic character in relief, on which were crushed the spice offerings. Damaged and mended, but an interesting and rare specimen. 11 x 9 cent. Puebla.

- 156 Shallow bowl. Inside plain black, the outside of a red glaze, prettily decorated with ornamented disks, etc. Chipped and mended. 4 x 17 cent. Puebla.
 - 157 Temple bowl. Very similar in form to 152. Red glaze, decorated in several colors. Damaged and mended. 14 x 7 cent. Puebla.
 - 158 Small temple bowl, outward curving border, decorated with red, the design rudely engraved by hand. Rests on three pellet-like feet. 13 x 5 cent. Chipped and mended. Puebla.
 - 159 Round temple vase, long neck. Yellow terra cotta, slightly chipped. 12 x 11 cent. San Andres Tuxtla.
 - 160 Temple bowl, the sides nearly at r. angle to bottom. Slightly damaged and mended. 6½ x 18 cent. Le Tejar.
 - 161 Deep temple bowl. Yellow glaze decorated with large hieroglyphs in red. Extremely rare specimen, somewhat damaged and mended, but nearly entire. 12½ x 16. Alvarado.
 - 162 Rounded temple vase, rounded sides and narrow mouth. 8 x 12 cent. Mended. Medellin.
 - 163 Small terra-cotta mortar to crush spices. Slightly damaged and mended. 5 x 7 cent. Medellin.
 - 164 Small gourd vase; brown terra-cotta. 6 x 6. Zapotecas.
 - 165 Gourd-shaped vase; around the neck a double circle of hieroglyphs in three colors on white ground, lower part of a creamy white. Slightly damaged and mended, otherwise perfect. A rare specimen. 16 x 13 cent. Sacrificios.
 - 166 Saucer and sm. vase with handles. Red terra-cotta. Le Tejar 2 pcs.
- The 4 following are polychromatic sacrificial vases of the ancient city of Cholula, concerning which pottery Hernando Cortez, in the narration of his journey into the interior of Mexico, writes to Charles V.: "We found at the market place of Chulula merchants selling vases of many colors as fine as the vases made in Spain."
- 167 Conical vase, slightly expanding mouth. Red burnished glaze ornamented with circle of Maltese crosses, over which are three rows of symbolical designs in white. Perfect, but base wanting. 16 x 9 cent. Very rare.
 - 168 Vase slightly narrowing at neck. Dark red burnished glaze decorated with broad bands; the lower one represents two human skulls, two hands and a wheel, in several colors. The feet (3) are missing, chipped at top, otherwise a perfect specimen. Very valuable. 14 x 11.
 - 169 Vase. Similar to 167, but with part of base. Dark red burnished glaze, three bands of ornaments, the lower one consisting of Maltese crosses, skulls, and a hand, all in white and orange. Side from top damaged, mended. 23 x 11 cent.
 - 170 Vase. Similar form. Dark red glaze, band of hieroglyphs around neck, the outlines engraved by hand. Base and part of glaze missing. 17 x 13 cent.

No. 171.

MAYA-QUICHE ANTIQUITIES.

171 Red terra-cotta group of three gods, forming a trinity. Two figures, in seated posture, between them the pillars of a temple gate, covered with hieroglyphs. Above the pillars and partly supported by the two lower figures is seated Cuculcan, the principal god. His hands rest upon his knees, the face is slightly bearded, well modeled, and wears an expression of strength and repose; his head is covered with a deer's head, around his neck is fastened a collar of pearls terminating over his breast with a human head or skull; an apron of checkered pattern falls between his crossed legs. With the exception of a plain apron the male deity at Cuculcan's left is naked, he wears necklace of three pearls; the goddess at his right wears a skirt, her neck is ornamented with necklace similar to the one worn by the central figure. Back mended, one column chipped, otherwise perfect. 18 x 15.

M. Boban considers this in every respect one of the most curious and valuable pieces of his collection; it was originally the property of Dr. Fuzier.

- 172 Seated female goddess wearing high hood, a sort of cloak behind falling from her head to her feet. Very curious; white terra-cotta. Height 8. Yucatan.
- 173 Idol's head, receding forehead; high cap. Red terra-cotta. 7 cent.
- 174 Idol's head, same type. Head-dress of square pattern. Terra-cotta, a little water-worn. 5 cent. Yucatan.
- 175 Idol's face. Well-modeled fragment. 4 cent.
- 176 Large bowl for temple offerings. Rather shallow curving form; damaged and mended; stands on three perfect feet. $8\frac{1}{2}$ x 32. Yucatan.
- 177 Similar. Mended, one foot gone. Diam. 20 cent. Yucatan.
- 178 Similar. Reddish terra-cotta. Perfect. Diam. $17\frac{1}{2}$. Yucatan.
- 179 Another. Red terra-cotta; rests on three slight projections. Perfect in form and of remarkable preservation. Diam. 16.
- 180 Another. Similar to last. Diam. $10\frac{1}{2}$ cent.
- 181 Another. In form like 176. Mended. Diam. 17 cent.
- 182 Bowl, sides curving upwards, without stand. Slate-colored terra-cotta; mended and a little chipped. 7 x 20 cent. Yucatan.
- 183 Red terra-cotta bowl, of similar form. Same condition and origin. 6 x 13 cent.
- 184 Flat dish. Red terra-cotta. Diam. 11 cent. Yucatan.
- 185 Cylindrical vase, slightly spreading mouth. Slate-colored terra-cotta, marks of ancient mending. Broken and damaged. 12 x 13 cent. Yucatan.
- 186 Black terra-cotta vase. Rounded body with straight neck; rests on three short feet. Of pleasing form; very slightly chipped. $8\frac{1}{2}$ x 12. Yucatan.
- 187 Another. Globular body, short outward curving neck. Pre-historic form. Damaged on one side and mended. 11 x 13 cent. Yucatan.
- 188 Another. Body with pretty curving sides, short neck. Grey terra-cotta, rough striated surface. Earliest form of Yucatan ceramics, corresponding to the pre-historic olla. Perfect. 7 x 10 cent.
- 189 Another. The curve at neck more elongated and marked. Dark brown; damaged and mended. 11 x 11 cent. Yucatan.

- 190 Another. Short body, wide expanding neck, outer surface retains marks of rude lozenge pattern. 8 x 10½ cent. Campèche, Yucatan.
- 191 Small vase, swelling body, straight short neck. Steatite. Complete specimen of great rarity. 6 x 8 cent. Yucatan.
- 192 Small vase. Similar to last; handle. Terra-cotta, brown and dark glaze. Perfect. 6 x 6½ cent. Yucatan.
- 193 Bowl. Interior brown glaze, the entire exterior decorated with hieroglyphs on white ground. Damaged and mended. Diam. 15. Cholula.
- 194 Another. Red glaze. Perfect. Diam. 12½. Cholula.
- 195 Small deep bowl. Terra-cotta; brilliant red glaze, outer decoration of sections of shells (see No. 7) and lines in black. Rare specimen, unfortunately damaged. Diameter 10 cent. Cholula.
- 196 Small bowl. Yellow terra-cotta; perfect. 8½. Val. of Mexico.
- 197 Small flat funereal dish for offerings, upper surface decorated; mended. 10. Valley of Mexico.

- 200 Mortar or grinder, molcayetl, smooth bottom, five circular black lines on inner surface, and four on each of three legs. Mended, but still a fine specimen, red terra-cotta. 8 x 17½ cent. Val. of Mexico.
- 201 Another. One leg gone, and mended.
- 202 Another. Entire; mended.
- 203 Another. Rich inner and outer decoration in black; damaged at side. 6 x 12.
- 204 Another. Very small, to be placed in tombs of young girls. Dark brown, a little damaged and mended. 4 x 6 cent. Val. of Mex.
- 205 Small mortar with broad base instead of feet. 3 x 5 cent. Val. of Mex.
- 206 Another. Same as last, but red terra-cotta. Perfect.
- 207 Polished stone, olive-shaped, pierced for suspension. Length 7½ cent. Valley of Mexico.
- 208 Large idol's head, the ears decorated with disks. Lava; very fair preservation, excavated at Nautla, in the country of the Totonacos.

- 209 Idol. Full figure, the face completely lacerated, the hands pressed under the chin. Hard stone; from the neighborhood of Vera Cruz. Height 23 cent.
- 210 Idol's head. Appears to wear a mask made of human skin. Hard stone; coarse work. Height 11 cent. Oajaca.
- 211 Female idol. Seated, hands resting upon the knees. Lava. Fair preservation. Height 31 cent. Gulf Coast near Vera Cruz.
- 212 Wolf or cuetlachtli. Resting posture. Coarse work. Height 40 cent. Cotastla.
- 213 Lava idol. Height 17. Coarse work. Puebla.
- 214 Female idol. Centeotl, the Goddess of Earth and Maize. Full figure on pedestal. The head is covered by an altar or temple portal; between the breasts is a perforation, a lozenge-pattern skirt falls below the hips. Coarse heavy work in lava. Height 47, width 20 cent. Valley of Mexico.
- 215 Statue. The head is covered with eagle or tortoise hood, otherwise nude. Stone; coarse work. Height 68, width 15 cent. Tampico.
- 216 Statue. The head is covered with a sort of skull-cap, the body is well proportioned, a belt with broad bow in front encircles the waist, arms and legs missing. Hard stone. Height 60, width 21. Rare specimen from the neighborhood of Vera Cruz.
- 217 Statue. The face is lacerated, the body clothed in animal's skin and bent forward as if to grasp a foe, disks on shoulders. Hard rock. Height 66. Tampico.
- 218 Statue of large female goddess. Nude, on the head is an oblong square surmounted by a cone, behind which is spread a fan-like ornament. Regular good work, left arm broken from shoulder to elbow, right arm and legs missing. Hard stone. Fine and rare specimen. Height 80, width 37 cent. Tampico.
- 219 Idol's head. Coarsely executed. Hard stone. 14 x 15 cent. Tampico.
- 220 Idol in crouching position, the chin touches the arms, which are folded on knees. Stone; coarse work. Height 24 cent. Valley of Mexico.
- 221 Idol. Same posture as last. Grotesque face, mouth twisted, hump on chest. Lava; coarse work. Height 32, width 15 cent. Valley of Mexico.
- 222 Coiled rattlesnake or teotlacoauhqui. Stone; coarse work. Height 30 cent. Neighborhood of Puebla.

- 223 Fish, or michin. Species of lava called tezontli. Coarse work. Length 29, height 16. Found at Mexicaltzinco near Mexio.

- 225 Warrior's head, with animal's head protruding from mouth and chin. Stone; very coarse work, posterior to the conquest. Height 23 cent.
- 226 Object known under the name of Sacrificial Yoke, with which the neck of victims is supposed to have been pressed, but according to M. Boban this is an erroneous opinion. He rather recognizes in this object a Temple ornament of a still undetermined use. Horse-shoe shape, covered with hieroglyphs. Stone; well preserved and of great rarity. Height 40, width 32. Neighborhood of Puebla.
- 227 Coiled rattlesnake. Modern work by Mexican Indians. Diam. 22 cent. Tlatelolco fabric.
- 228 Small alabaster idol. Height 7 cent. Tlatelolco fabric.
- 229 Impression in wax of an antique Mexican cameo. See descriptive note by de Waldeck at back. 15 x 10½.
- 230 Copy in plaster of a stone basso-relievo found among the Lacandones (Lorillard City), State of Chiapas, representing the curious religious ceremony of passing a cord dotted with needles through the tongue. Made by the French explorer Désiré Charnay. 1 m. 20 cent. x 76 cent.
- 231 Copy in plaster of a stone door panel of temple. Same origin as last. 1 m. 16 cent. x 80 cent.
- 232 Other subject. 1 m. 12 cent. x 82 cent.
- 233 A series of about 45 moulds in papier maché taken by Dr. Antonio Pañafiel, from the most interesting hieroglyphical monuments in the National Museum at Mexico. Made to order for Mr. Boban and never used. 25 cent. to 1 meter. Valuable lot for a museum.
- 234 Feather Mosaic, Aztec work, time of the conquest. Engraving on thick paper of San Antonio de Padua holding in his left the Infant Christ, and in his right hand a blooming lily, decorated in huitzitzilin or humming-bird's feathers. Mounted on copper plate; fairly well preserved, and now of great rarity. 21 x 31 cent.
- 235 Oil painting on paper. Infant Christ and cherubs, gold border and inscription below. Murillo style, old Mexican work; mounted on wood. 20½ x 16 cent.

- 236 Aztec Warrior, time of Montezuma (1521). Skilfully executed mannequin, life size, representing a Knight of the Order of the Tiger. The body is clothed in a close fitting vestment of tiger-skin pattern; the warrior's head, modeled from a fine living specimen of the Valley of Mexico Indians, is visible through the widely open jaws of the tiger's head, made of stained wood, according to the ancient Mexican method, and surmounted by a bunch of feathers of brilliant hues. From the warrior's lip hangs the tentetl, of rock crystal, to his neck is suspended an ancient collar of pierced stone beads with (modern) appendage; the right hand rests upon the national arm or mass called maquahuilt; in his left is a circular shield, or chimalli, covered with deer-skin on which is figured the hieroglyph of the order; at the wrist and ankles are affixed enormous tiger's claws, the feet are protected by cactli, a sort of sandals still worn by certain Indians. The general execution is entirely correct and has been approved by the highest Mexican authorities, its construction cost M. Boban much time and labor. A superb centre-piece for an ethnological collection.
- 237 Macuahuitl or National arm of the Aztecs. Exact reproduction from a decayed specimen found in a tomb at Tlatelolco; on one side 6, on the other 5 genuine teeth. Length, 92 cent.

ANCIENT MEXICAN STIRRUPS, SPURS, ETC.

These monster spurs are cross-shaped, from 40 to 50 centimeters in height and from 30 to 35 cent. in width. They are made of one piece of forged and chiseled iron, often of an open-work pattern, ornamented with arabesques, figures, and varied designs representing tissues, flowers, etc. They were first used by Hernando Cortez and the officers who accompanied him during the conquest of Mexico.

It is a well-known fact that Cortez, born at Medellin in Estramadura in 1485, reached the Antilles in 1504, and it is evident that skilled smiths must have been kept very busy in those new settlements, bases of operation for adventurers eager for gold and new conquests. It is therefore probably in the Antilles that the strange idea was first conceived of loading the horse with such stirrups, genuine arms of great usefulness in struggles body to body with enemies almost naked and deprived of means of defence.

Imagine one of those iron-clad cavaliers penetrating violently into the ranks of the Mexicans, on foot, and half clad; it is evident that these spurs, skillfully used, would wound and overthrow many enemies. But the following text faithfully translated from Francisco Lopez de Gomora's work, Historia de las Conquistas de Hernando Cortez, will tend to dispel all doubts on this subject:

"In so critical a circumstance, Cortez remembered having heard that the Mexicans never abandoned the battle-field so long as the National banner was in sight; consequently he decided to penetrate their ranks to tear away this sacred object from the hands of the Mexican commander. Accompanied by Juan de Salamanca, Christobal de Olid, Avilla, Sandoval and Avarado who surrounded him, he rushed upon the enemy with such impetuosity that those he did not kill with his lance, he overthrew with his stirrups, called Mitral stirrups (de mitra), but which rather resembled a cross and were of great weight and made of iron as it was still fashioned among us not long ago." During M. Boban's long sojourn in Mexico, he examined many mural and other paintings, representing ancient views of Mexico, also costumes of the period of the conquest; these enabled him to reach the conclusion that the fashion of wearing these stirrups ceased at the beginning of the XVIII. century.

No. 238.

- 238 One pair of monster stirrups, of forged iron, cross-shaped, with chiseled border terminating in pellets at angles, the central panels on each side decorated with monkey-like figures, broad flowers and other designs all chiseled in solid high relief, the lower section is double, held apart by a separate conical plate of open work representing several figures, superposed. Total height including ring for suspension 51, width 34 centimeters. The maker's name, MIREs, above upper central decoration. Very heavy. Once the property of Maximilian, the ill-fated emperor of Mexico. Puebla.

ANCIENT GREEK POTTERY.

These fine and very valuable specimens of Greek Ceramics were first described, and fabric or origin designated by Monsieur J. C. Geslin, for 25 years Government Inspector in the Department of Antiquities at the Louvre Museum, Paris.

691 Diota or large vase. Size 84 (nearly 3 feet) in height by 50 centimeters in width. Terra-cotta, of remarkably light and fine clay. Wonderfully graceful classical outline and beautiful proportion. The entire ground is black, with decorations in red delicately lined with black and white. The frontispiece represents, in a temple portal of Ionic order, a nude warrior seated, holding his lance and helmet, other pieces of armor at his feet, receiving a laurel crown from a naked youth before him; on each side are accessory male and female figures, bringing various offerings to the victor; at sides a large, pure Greek palm decoration rises from a Greek border, filling the entire field. On opposite side the accessory figures of the frontispiece bring offerings to be consecrated upon an altar, over which is a libation cup. Over the frontispiece, in the centre of the neck, is a female head, outlined in red, surrounded by a rich ornamentation of flowers and leaves, the opposite side is of a palm-leaf pattern surmounted by a slender floriated border on entire circumference, reaching to the lip. The handles are black and voluted, with female heads in relief on each side, white, outlined in red, and beautifully modeled.

The preservation of the vase is nearly perfect, the slight defects insignificant and not marring its intactness.

This vase was made in Gnacia, Græcia Magna, 2d century B. C., and was brought to the south of Gaul by a Roman pro-consul or governor. It was buried amidst the ruins of a villa, where it remained until finally discovered and excavated by an old French family, in whose possession it has been until purchased for Monsieur Boban.

This is unquestionably the best and most important specimen of the Greek or any other ceramic art ever seen in America; it is also larger than any specimen in the public or private collections of Europe.

692 Vase. Oenochoe or trefoil lip, with handle. In an ornamental panel a seated female presenting an offering. Red and white on black ground. Made at Basilicata, 2d century, B. C. Height 21 cent.; very skilfully mended.

COPPER COINAGE OF MORELOS, REVOLUTIONARY GENERAL.

Señor Orosco y Berra, the only Mexican authority on the subject, states that these revolutionary moneys were both struck and cast, that they bear dates 1811 (rare), 1812, 1813, with denominational values of 1, 2, and 8 reals. They were issued at Tlapujahua, Tasco, Sultaptec, Oajaca and perhaps other places. The circulation of this coinage ceased immediately at the expiration of the war of independence, hence the issues are rare. It is a remarkable fact that among the one hundred specimens herewith offered it will be difficult to find two coins from precisely the same dies.
